

DINOSAURIOS DE PELO ROSA

SOROKIN, AMANDA

SYNOPSIS

Camouflaged under the form of an investigation into the poetic language of the vanguard, "Dinosaurios de pelo rosa" is in reality a romantic songbook that Luis Alberto de Cuenca compares with those that Petrarcha, Bécquer or Salinas wrote on their day. The dinosaurs of the poetry of Amanda Sorokin discover a world of intimate sensations that become fantastic, determined to confront the exterior, sometimes ironic but always expressed with enormous authenticity. With a different, unique voice, it presents to the reader a history of love with successes and failures, shadows of reality that show the inability of the human being to free itself from the passion spell. A demonstration of how the breath of Eros, in the words of Dante, is capable of moving the sun and the stars....
